LENINGTON GARDENS

Bob and Alice

Lenington Gardens

---

- A young firm starting its seventh year of business.
- A name synonymous with quality.
- The largest grower in the midwest specializing exclusively in Hemerocallis, with a selection of well over 1000 commercial varieties and many thousands of named and unnamed hybrid seedlings.
- A firm which customizes its service with freshly dug plants for each order.
- The home and point of origin of Lenington hybrids.
- A firm which welcomes constructive criticisms by its customers for improvement of its service.
- A firm that honestly and earnestly tries to give its customers the most in quality and selection for their money . . . because it believes that the beauty and joy that flowers bring should not be limited to those of a specific financial class.
- A firm affiliated and working with many outstanding growers and organizations for the furthering of interest in, and improvement of, the varieties of the genus Hemerocallis.

WHAT in the world IS a HEMEROCALLIS?

A Disease?

A common question by many people. However, in gardening circles the growing of Hemerocallis (daylilies) is a disease, one of pleasurable bliss, known as Hem Fever.

Seriously though; Hems, daylilies or whatever term you choose to call them, are the most up-and-coming genus of plant life, in the United States today. You ask why . . . just read the following:

- drought resistant (note this, midwest gardeners).
- a summer blooming perennial (bloom from early spring until frost by selection of varieties).
- practically insect and disease free, certainly the cleanest ornamental this writer can think of at present.
- wide in its range of colors, heights, blooming characteristics (dates, form and shape of bloom and various other habits).
- can serve as a specimen, be used in borders, as an edging, for screening, soil retention of banks, living mulches, accent points and a plant that will grow with reasonable success where others fail.
- will adapt themselves to climatic and soil conditions.

LENINGTON VARIETIES

"Bred in the Heart of America . . .

For performance throughout America"

Although a number of varieties were scheduled for introduction this year, because of limited stock and previous demands and obligations, it has been necessary to limit our 1957 introductions to one variety.

LEMON SHERBERT (G. E. Lenington) — This very pale yellow flower with its green throat is a joy to those who make corsages and arrangements. A slightly recurving full flower with wide, ruffled petals. Good branching. Remains open late in the evening. 30 in. June-July E. ----- Stock Limited. $7.50

To those of you who have written, called and otherwise contacted us about the availability of GREEN ENVY and SUSAN WEST and a number of other yet to be named Lenington Hybrids, we are truly humble in our gratefulness, but must advise that we are not in a position to list or offer these at this time. We do invite you to see these displayed in gardens at the 1957 convention in Tulsa.

PREVIOUS INTRODUCTIONS

DOCTOR GUFFEY (G. E. Lenington) — You will admire this bright, ruby-red flower with its apple green throat. The flower is just as fresh looking in the evening as it was in the morning and has a lot of sheen at all times. Very well branched. 32 in. June-July-Aug. SE. ----- $3.50

LADY BONN (G. E. Lenington) — Light canary yellow flowers, that glisten as though they had been sprinkled with diamond dust. The blooms are more than 6 inches in diameter and are carried gracefully on 38 in. scapes. Flowers remain open until late at night. June-July. E. ----- $4.00

MIZZOU (R. L. Lenington) — A rich, velvety, dark red-purple. Ruffled petals are pinched and stand erect. Sepals recurve slightly. A small golden yellow throat. THURZA (G. E. Lenington) — A very large recurving flower of red and yellow blend. Wide, slightly ruffled petals. Heavy substance and sun resistant. Well branched. Blooms over a long period. ## CULTURAL TIPS

PLANTING TIME may be anytime the ground is tillable, but spring or fall planting is recommended. It should be remembered that fall planting in northern gardens must be done far enough in advance of cold weather to allow the plants time to establish themselves in order to prevent heaving. It must also be remembered that newly set plants must have abundant moisture to insure new root development. This is especially true in cases of plants set in advance, or during, hot, dry, weather. Hemerocallis correctly planted and once established are quite capable of taking care of themselves, but do require the above considerations at planting.

SOIL REQUIREMENTS: They will thrive in almost any garden soil, provided the soil is not poorly drained or too heavily shaded and is of reasonable fertility. Daylilies, when given special consideration and care, reward us richly in performance and beauty. Printed suggestions and complete planting instructions are sent with each order.

FIRST YEAR RESULTS: No variety should be judged by its performance the first year. Only after a daylily becomes established . . . usually by the second or third year . . . will it produce characteristic bloom. Of course, no bloom or performance can be judged as normal during unusual or extreme weather conditions.

We recommend:

DAYLILIES AND HOW TO GROW THEM

We recommend without reservation this new book on Daylilies. It is a complete and informative story on Daylilies, written for the home gardener. The book covers all phases of culture and propagation, and includes five regional chapters written by leading authorities. A valuable addition to your library.
